

THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY

Scene from James K Hackett's "The Grain of Dust."

Charles Moore has written his farce "Stop Thief," which appears March 31 at the Robinsons Grand, around two kleptomaniacs and a real crook. The novelty in this play's construction is that the incidents of the play occur during the play's actual playing. It is said to be a wonderful mixture of complications which the author has provided. It proved to be one of the most successful plays on Broadway last season and will be presented here with a splendid cast, including John Webb, John Findlay, Charles Brown, James H. Manning, Susanne Willis, F. Hutchinson, Nan Francis, Franchot Gunther, Dickie Deairo, Lella Frost.

'Michael Arnold and Doctor Lynn,' a powerful two-reel Rex masterpiece is the attraction at the Orpheum today. Robert Leonard, as Michael Arnold, the disowned son of a man who is found apparently murdered in his bed, plays the lead in this strong drama. Other pictures shown are 'A Kentucky Romance,' a pleasing Kay Bee drama; 'The Blue Diamond,' a Theatrical company, and 'The Vagabond Chair,' featuring Muriel Vance and Boyd Marshall in a pleasing Princeps love drama. Tomorrow is a two-part Majestic feature is to be shown, entitled 'The Thiel and the Book,' with Miss Billy West in the title role.

A series of electric buttons, the correct combination of which to produce results is known only to the authorized, features a new automobile starter.

Senator Fox is a young man and he should be allowed to reserve the right to change his mind—although he does not ask for it just at this time. However, being young and able and highly thought of, he might be "drated" some time to make the race for Congress in the Fourth district. He is identified with the dominant faction of his party, and should be allowed to continue to dominate for some time to come. Senator Fox is a very serious consideration of their hands for anything that might put in a bid for What—that may be. If he continues to feel about it as he now does, it will not be a congressional nomination.

The evening service was the best of the week's effort. The storm did not keep the people away, and the large auditorium was filled with people, and the ushers were compelled to bring in chairs to seat the crowd who came to hear the Pastor Evangelist preach on "Building the Ark" rather than the preacher said his sermon on warning.
